

Grants and bursaries

Each year, we provide over £250,000 to support research and professional development, attendance at scientific meetings, and the organisation and hosting of events and activities through sponsorship.

Conferences and travel grants cover the costs of attending face-to-face or online scientific meetings, training courses, or lab visits.

Research grants support summer laboratory placements, benchwork costs, research capacity building in lower-income economies, and more.

Bursaries support members attending Society scientific meetings, training events, and courses.

Sponsorship opportunities contribute towards the costs of running biochemistry-focused events and activities.

Grants are available for both members and non-members.
